DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 63-64,66-69 ,71,73-74 and 76-79 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Watanabe (4,811,385).

Regarding claims 63, 66 and 68, Watanabe discloses an apparatus (Fig. 1) and a method of controlling a transfer device capable of communicating with an external storage device over a network (column 8, lines 1-23), the method comprising the steps of:

receiving data from a digital device; determining whether or not said external storage device is ready to receive the data;

storing the in an internal storage device in accordance with a result of the determination; and uploading the data stored in the internal storage device over the network data to said external storage device when said external storage device is ready. (column 8, lines 1-23).

Further for claims 68, Watanabe teaches a computer readable medium stored with a program since Watanabe teaches that retrieving, storing and transmitting the data under controlling by a computer.

Regarding claims 64, 67 and 69, Watanabe teaches said external storage device remotely controls said transfer device.

Regarding claims 71, 74 and 77, Watanabe further teaches the digital device is a still camera, a video camera or a scanning device.

Regarding claims 73, 76 and 79, Watanabe further teaches displaying a user interface in response to a connection of the digital device, wherein the retrieving step is initiated when a one-click operation is executed on the user interface.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 72 , 75 and 78 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Watanabe in view of Krapf et al (6,449,767).

Regarding claims 72,75 and 78 , Watanabe fails to specifically teach that the network is a cable network, the transfer device is a set top box, and the external digital storage device is a cable head end.

Krapf teaches a cable network , a set top box and a cable head end (Fig. 1, column 1) that are used for transferring the image and data .

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Watanabe by using apparatus in combination with a cable network, set top box and a head end thereby enhancing the apparatus of Watanabe to widely use the images from the apparatus .

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
